If yes, you should contact East Hampshire's Environmental Health Department to find out about any requirements you should be aware of to ensure that you are complying with appropriate legislation. It is in the interests of those providing food and those consuming the food that all health and safety matters are considered. You want those attending your event to remember it for the best reasons not the worst!

Noise at your Event

Some events can create noise and may disturb local residents. Whilst local people may accept some noise, particularly during daytime hours, organisers of events must ensure that a nuisance is not caused.

The council wishes to promote events, but at the same time has a duty under the Environmental Protection Act 1990 to prevent noise nuisance, so a reasonable balance needs to be struck.

If public address systems are going to be issued, or the event includes amplified music or some other noisy activity, event organisers need to take measures to ensure that the level of noise is monitored and controlled to prevent it becoming excessive.

You may wish to contact East Hampshire District Council's Environmental Health Department for further information on noise control.
